

WENDEL IS ISOLATED; JAIL THREATS HINTED

Mercer Grand Jury Today
Will Reopen Lindbergh Case.

TRENTON, N. J., April 13.—(AP)—Paul H. Wendel, the former Trenton attorney whose reputation "confession" of the Lindbergh baby kidnapping was started a two-state investigation, was isolated from other prisoners in Mercer jail today on the eve of the county grand jury's reopening of the case.

There were reports, denied by officials, Wendel had been threatened by prisoners because of his reported identification of an ex-convict as one of four men who detained him in Brooklyn, N. Y., and tortured him into "confessing" the Lindbergh crime. The fact that the grand jury has subpoenaed more than a score of witnesses for tomorrow and Wednesday was taken as an indication that the new investigation of the Wendel phase of the Bruno Richard Hauptmann case may be more extensive than the inquiry "discontinued" two weeks ago.

The grand jury will not hear Dr. John F. (Jackie) Condon, who was asked by Aline Freeman, the foreman, to appear Wednesday. Dr. Condon sent Freeman a telegram saying in part:

"I know nothing about the Wendel case and am certain my presence would add nothing to the activities in which you are reported to be engaged."

RENEW WORK TODAY ON SEWER PROJECT

Peachtree Creek Task To Be Resumed After Rain-Enforced Delay.

The Peachtree creek sewer project, the initial undertaking in Atlanta's city-wide sewer modernization program, will be attacked with renewed vigor this morning according to Albert A. Clarke, superintendent of Fulton county public works and county warden.

Mr. Clarke declared inclement weather and constant and heavy rains had delayed the work and made it impossible to lay concrete forms. The work of clearing the site of mud from the flooded streets will be undertaken by 25 convicts this morning, he said, and a full force of 50 convicts will be put on the job as soon as they are needed on construction work.

Mayor Key previously had written Dr. Charles R. Adams, chairman of the county commission, declaring that if the work on the sewer line were not completed soon the disposal plant would be finished and forced to lie idle and the sewage would have to be turned into Peachtree creek. Dr. Adams pledged the full co-operation of the commission in carrying the work to a speedy completion.

South Grateful.

"Roosevelt saw the light in the gloom and he has brought confidence to our people," said Judge Persons. "No people should be nor are more grateful to him than we in the south."

"When we lost our primary in national affairs back in 1891, we never regained it until Roosevelt became our president."

"We now have a southern vice president and a southern secretary of state. The important posts of the congress are held by southerners and the only way the south can hope to maintain its prominence in national political life is to support our adopted son, Franklin D. Roosevelt."

We must and we will march on to victory with him in the November elections," asserted the judge.

Both speakers were introduced by Mrs. Lamar Rutherford Lipscomb, chairman of the Friends of Roosevelt clubs. J. W. Woodruff, of Columbus; John B. Wilson, secretary of state, and others were introduced to the guests. Mrs. Lipscomb issued an invitation to all to attend Roosevelt's inauguration in Washington next January.

of his answer was evasive but that part was facetious.

"I was tempted then to reply that the state of Georgia has a constitution too. But I refrained. He would not have understood." The speaker referred to Talmadge's assertions that Roosevelt has no regard for the provisions of the constitution and his reply that the Governor certainly has no compunction in disregarding the state constitution.

"Georgia favors Roosevelt" and 40 resolutions favoring him and asking for a state primary have been sent me from the various counties," Allen said. He mentioned that on Roosevelt's recent visit to Georgia the President thought only of the sufferers at Gainesville and planned means for their relief.

"Roosevelt saw the light in the gloom and he has brought confidence to our people," said Judge Persons. "No people should be nor are more grateful to him than we in the south."

"When we lost our primary in national affairs back in 1891, we never regained it until Roosevelt became our president."

RIVAL G. O. P. FACTIONS CHOOSE DELEGATIONS

Two Groups To Seek Recognition at District, State Conventions.

Two slates of delegates to the republican district state conventions were in existence in Fulton county last night after warring factions resorted to court action in efforts to control the county party.

The black and tan group, headed by Chairman H. A. Allen, elected representatives late yesterday afternoon after Judge Hugh M. Dorsey declined to continue a temporary injunction against this faction which was ordered Saturday upon the petition of the lily whites, led by Clint W. Hager, former United States district attorney.

Claiming that the black and tan met "clandestinely" and illegally, Hager sought to permanently enjoin them from meeting and to prevent them from electing delegates.

Allen, a lawyer, resisted the injunction plea yesterday before Judge Dorsey and argued that every law had been complied with by his group.

Charles Secret Meetings. Hager contended the black and tan met secretly in various sections of the city in church basements while the Griffin law, passed in 1925, held this practice illegal.

Allen pointed out that the Griffin bill designated county, district and state conventions to be held in the court house in a superior court room after being advertised 10 days. He declared the mass meetings were illegal, as they were in wards and in the city.

He asserted the Griffin bill furnished an adequate remedy at law as courts of equity have no jurisdiction over purely political questions. Hager contended the court did have jurisdiction, a question which Judge Dorsey did not rule on as he declined to continue the temporary restraining order which was granted Saturday by Judge G. H. Howard.

Hager and the lily whites plan to contest the black and tan selections in the district and state conventions and even to the national convention if necessary.

Votes for Meetings. The district meeting will be held April 25 and the state gathering May 9, for the purpose of selecting national representatives. Both meetings will be held at the courthouse.

It is expected Hager will contest the black-and-tan delegation on the ground that rules of the republican party call for the election to be held at 2 o'clock, April 11, in a superior court room at the courthouse. The election took place yesterday at the 18th, in Judge Jesse M. Wood's criminal court room.

The black-and-tan gathering, stormy and harassed Saturday with orders and disunion and in sharp contrast yesterday. It was orderly and methodical.

Only one incident marred the smooth procedure. When the delegates from the city were named, a member from the seventh ward objected that no named delegate resided in that ward. He attempted to substitute the seventh warder for Ben J. Davis, long known as a republican leader.

Officers of Group. The black-and-tan named Allen permanent chairman of the Fulton county group; W. M. Theabaut, vice chairman; Norman I. Miller, treasurer; J. W. Longwell, secretary, and W. J. Shaw, assistant secretary.

Their state convention delegates were Joseph T. Rose, former collector of internal revenue; Allen, Theabaut, Longwell, Frank A. Doughman, Miller, Norman I. Miller, Davis, G. H. Johnson, L. D. Melton and A. T. Walden.

The district delegates were Rose, Miller, Davis, Walden, Melton, Johnson, T. W. Holmes, Frank Adair Jr., T. M. Alexander, L. A. Dawson and A. Price.

A national delegate will be elected at the district convention and four delegates at large from Georgia will be named at the state assembly.

TALMADGE PURCHASES OF LANDS REVEALED

democratic convention also was approved, and Scott Chandler, Fred Coulter and Julius McCurdy were designated as a committee to deliver the resolution to members of the state committee from DeKalb.

Following is the list of land purchases which Howard exhibited at the meeting and on which he challenged "Talmadge and his henchmen" to reply:

List of Purchases. 400 acres for $2,200 from T. R. Talmadge Jr., on April 21, 1934. 500 acres for $5,000 from Continental Casualty Company on January 8, 1935. 228.8 acres for $6,000 from State Planters Bank & Trust Company on October 7, 1935. 342.85 acres for $5,142.75 from C. W. Ensign et al. on December 30, 1935. 185 acres for $2,000 from H. H. Hardin on October 8, 1935. 5 acres for $21 from C. A. Ensign estate by executors on January 20, 1936.

In Monroe County. All the purchases, according to Howard, were from the deed record books in Monroe county, and Howard added "if he has spent a dime in the past 18 months he has spent at least $50,000 on land and improvements he has made on it."

"I'm going to talk plain here," Howard said as he launched his attack on Talmadge. "It's a crying shame that we have to organize in Georgia to defend the greatest humanitarian who ever sat in the White House against a blatherer like Gene Talmadge."

"I'm going to paint his picture for you, and you can have him. I don't want him."

Georgia "Hitlerized." "When Talmadge usurped all the power of the state, when he Hitlerized Georgia, when he became the big dictator, he took unto himself more power than any other governor of any state in the Union ever assumed at any time in the nation's history."

"He committed treason against the people of Georgia in time of peace. He launched the most unwarranted, unprovoked attack on one of the three greatest men who ever sat in the White House."

He named Jefferson and Jackson as the other two.

"Some people have sold their birthright for a mess of pottage, but Talmadge has sold out to the republicans and the Liberty League," Howard continued. "He is begging for

Leaders Predict Victory for Roosevelt

Judge Ogden Persons, of Forsyth (left), and Marion Allen, Roosevelt campaign manager, shown last night at the Atlanta Jefferson Day dinner where both predicted an overwhelming victory for the President, who they compared to Thomas Jefferson, one of the main framers of the United States constitution and the father of the democratic party. funds to get $200 each time he makes a radio address and if there is a high school boy in Georgia would couldn't make a better one he ought to be barred from the air.

"Follies With Dead." "Heaven polioed with the dead and dying at Gainesville. When the tornado struck Tupelo, Miss., Governor Sennett Connor rushed immediately to the scene, stayed up all night and all the next day giving what aid he could to the victims."

"Governor Talmadge spent several hours each day in the hotel room of a large road building contractor and never offered or attempted to go to Gainesville, only 64 miles from Atlanta, while the Mississippi governor drove 260 miles, until it was announced by newspapers that President Roosevelt, the greatest humanitarian and the best friend the common man has had in the White House in many decades, would stop off there. Talmadge then left the hotel room and rushed to Gainesville, although it had been suffering for five long days from the greatest catastrophe ever visited on Georgia."

Predicted Issue. "I don't want to be placed in the position of saying I told you so, but I made a speech to about 5,000 persons when he was running for governor, and I said then the issue was Talmadge or Roosevelt. "Talmadge countered with a statement that he loved every bone in Mr. Roosevelt's body, that I was crazy or words to that effect. He said he had ridden from Savannah to Atlanta with the President and that Mr. Roosevelt had called him 'Gene.' "The complexion changed, however, when Mr. Roosevelt was forced to take the federal relief funds out from the administration of the Governor because money which should have gone to jobless men, hungry women and starving children was diverted to pay salaries of Talmadge henchmen who were placed on the pay rolls. "That was too much for Talmadge. When that change was made and he couldn't build up his political machine with federal relief funds, he saw no good they could do in Georgia. Mr. Roosevelt saw he couldn't trust the Georgia Governor with other people's money."

U. S. Work in Georgia. "The Roosevelt administration has expended $338,500,000 in Georgia in the last 37 months. That is more than the state government expends for all purposes in 10 years. He saved 15,000 homes for Georgians, 20,000 farms for farmers, aided in every public work imaginable, among which were additions and improvements to 1,123 schools, and in addition increased the value of farm products from $95,000,000 in 1932 to $225,000,000 in 1935."

"Republicans are searching the country with a fine tooth comb for a man who can make a creditable race against him. Bankers, businessmen, leaders of industry and others who are now crying for economy, rushed to the President in 1932 begging him to save them. He did, and when they had drunk their fill and were on their feet, they turned on him, but the people of America haven't turned on him."

"Gene Talmadge to the contrary notwithstanding."

DECISION WITHHELD. HOWARD THURSTON, 66 SUCCUMBS IN FLORIDA

Pneumonia Fatal; After-Death Communication Attempt Reported.

MIAMI BEACH, Fla., April 13.—(P)—Howard Thurston, the man who produced living things from nowhere and made them disappear again in thin air, passed through the curtain of death here today.

The 66-year-old magician who fooled kings and common folk and then became their life-long friend, died of pneumonia following a cerebral hemorrhage this afternoon.

The second Mrs. Thurston, who became his wife years after he changed a box of candy into a white rabbit in her hands on a Chicago theater stage, was with him when he died. His daughter Jane, who worked as chief assistant through years of magic on platforms throughout the world, also survives.

The famous trickster was forced into retirement last year when he collapsed during a performance at Charleston, W. Va. Another hemorrhage here March 30 caused him to weaken greatly.

Earlier—last December 13—he said he had performed his greatest trick—"I've recaptured my health." But his hopes were greater than his strength and he had to stay closer to his apartment.

He was born in Columbus, Ohio, and was a magician at heart from his boyhood although he followed parental wishes and prepared himself for the ministry.

Herrmann, the great magician, once took a brass collar button from the forehead of young Thurston. He gave the button to the boy and Thurston cherished it more than the gift of a watch from Emperor Franz Josef, of Austria-Hungary.

His knowledge of theology and his interest in magic caused him to enter into many discussions of the after-life. He was reported to have formed an agreement with the late Harry Houdini, another great magician; the late Arthur Conan Doyle, British spiritualist and author of the Sherlock Holmes stories; and the late Charles Carter, who died recently in Bombay, India, to attempt a reunion after death.

Mrs. Thurston today declined to discuss the reported agreement saying "There have been too many conflicting stories about that already but I might discuss it later." Mrs. Houdini, in Hollywood, Cal., said "He's joined Houdini now. No doubt they're up there telling each other a lot of tricks."

Mrs. Houdini, who claims to know the code specified in the agreement, said "There has as yet been no authentic communication with me from beyond the grave but I am still hoping. I have a shrine at my home here where the light has been burning since Houdini died. That is connected with Houdini's secret compacts."

Mrs. Thurston said the prestidigitator's body would be sent to Columbus tomorrow for burial there.

Night Jailer at Tower In Surprise Marriage

Robert C. "Bob" McCall, night jailer in charge of Fulton tower for the past 18 years, had a surprise for his coworkers yesterday. And it took some time to convince them he was not joking.

The surprise, in fewer words by far than it took Bob to tell it, was that Robert C. McCall was married to Mrs. Mary Pitts, of 887 Ponce de Leon avenue, at 10 o'clock Sunday morning.

The couple were married by A. C. Peacock, a Fulton county deputy and an ordained minister. Charlie Poole, another deputy, was taken with the party to Mr. Peacock's church on Campbellton road without any knowledge of what was going to transpire or that he was destined to act as McCall's best man and witness.

And Bob had a Jolt yesterday when he received an order to appear for duty an hour earlier than usual, showing, he said, that the world has lost the spirit of romance.

Mr. and Mrs. McCall will make their home at 877 Bankhead avenue.

Leading Figures at Session of State Probation Officers

Leading figures attending the two-day meeting of the Georgia Probation Officers' Association in session yesterday and today at the Biltmore hotel are shown here. They are, left to right, R. A. Chappell, president; Judge E. Marvin Underwood, presiding officer, and Dr. F. Lovell Bixby, assistant director Bureau of Prisons, United States Department of Justice. Bixby delivered the keynote address, speaking on "The Place of Probation in a Program of Crime Prevention." Staff photo by Turner Hiers.

Modern Objectives of Penology
Told by U. S. Prison Expert Here

Modern methods of dealing with crime and criminals have three outstanding characteristics, Dr. F. Lovell Bixby, associate director of the bureau of prisons of the United States Department of Justice, told a gathering of 200 Georgia probation officers and penologists last night.

Those three outstanding characteristics, according to Dr. Bixby, are: Penology seeks the protection of society rather than revenge against the individual criminal.

Penology faces the fact that human beings are complex and that no one form of treatment will serve to change all human nature.

Penology deals with a variety of methods, rather than with one method.

Keynote of Conference.

Dr. Bixby's discussion of penology was the keynote feature of a conference on crime control and prevention that will last through today at the Biltmore hotel. Probation officers, prison officials, judges, social welfare workers and all manner of persons who deal directly with the problems of crime have been invited to join in the discussions. The doors of the meetings are open to the public, however.

Probation officers and various interested persons were gathering in Atlanta throughout yesterday. R. A. Chappell, president of the Georgia Probation Officers' Association, opened the sessions last night. Delegates will be occupied at business sessions today with a luncheon as guests of the Kiwanis Club at noon at the Ansley as the only social feature of the gathering.

Representative Bates.

Dr. Bixby came from Washington for the conference as the representative of Sanford Bates, director of prisons. The subject of his address last night was "The Place of Probation in a Program of Crime Prevention."

In outlining the three basic problems of penology, he said: "It is not necessary to defend the thesis that whatever is done to a convicted criminal should be done from the point of view of protecting society rather than seeking revenge."

"In so far as the control and prevention of crime is concerned, we have learned one thing of major significance. Human beings are not governed entirely by fear. The search for pleasure is at least as powerful a motive in human conduct as the avoidance of unpleasantness."

No Cure-all for Crime.

"It would be easier to go on blindly believing that the imposition of long sentences to be served in prisons and prison camps under conditions which include every conceivable form of inconvenience and discomfort would frighten people and deter them in committing crimes. But that would be as foolish as it would be to perpetuate the idea that blood-letting is a cure for all ills."

The deterrent value of "consequences" lies not in the severity of the consequences but in their inescapability, Dr. Bixby pointed out. He cited the continued and growing use of airplanes, automobiles and ships in spite of potential dangers.

"Men are sent to prison as punishment and not for punishment," said Dr. Bixby. "It is definitely recognized that the task of the modern prison includes an effort to prepare prisoners for return to normal social life. Prisons do not protect our communities if men leave the prison more antisocial and more desperate than they were when they entered."

Not Torture Places.

"As a result of this broader and more intellectual approach, modern prisons are no longer places of physical torture. Cleanliness, sanitation, proper diet, adequate medical care, education, constructive employment, wholesome recreation and reasonable opportunities for self-expression are not only taken for granted but insisted on in any penal institution worthy of the name today."

"The very essence of probation is that it seeks to treat the offender and rehabilitate him in the environment in which he must live the rest of his life," said Dr. Bixby.

"It has been said by careful students that a dollar invested in a good probation service will return between three and four dollars through reduced expenditures for the maintenance of prisoners in penal institutions and increased collections in fines, costs and restitutions. Numerous investigations into the comparative costs of probation and institutional care costs from ten to twenty times as much as probation."

Most Effective Method.

"It is not, however, the relatively low cost of probation which constitutes its chief advantage," declared Dr. Bixby. "The fact that probation, properly administered, is the most effective method of dealing with certain types of offenders is far more important to the citizens of any state."

Statistics quoted by Dr. Bixby showed that 97 per cent of those who successfully completed their probation had never again been in trouble.

Speakers at the sessions today will be Judge C. Murphy Chandler, of the DeKalb county juvenile court; Mrs. Virginia L. Bennett, director of the children's division of the Fulton county department of public welfare; Dr. Hugh N. Fuller, professor of criminology and director of research of Emory University; Miss Edwin Wood, recreational director of Columbus, Ga.; Edward B. Everett, United States probation officer of the district court, Atlanta; Judge Relford Tulliant, of the Chatham county juvenile court; Edward C. Hardison, chief probation officer of the United States court of the southern district of Georgia; Ben Overstreet Jr., parole officer of the United States penitentiary, Atlanta; Henry Mays, of the state department of public welfare; W. W. Woolfolk, probation officer of the Fulton county juvenile court, and R. L. Ramsey, Fulton county member of the Georgia assembly.

The sessions will resume this morning at 9 o'clock.

serve the democratic principles of Georgia politics and force a primary. Morris and a large group of his supporters are ready to take a determined stand against the primary and yesterday he declared a vast majority of Georgians are behind the movement.

The prominent Marietta jurist ended his appeal to members of the state committee with an admonition that "you make whatever sacrifice is necessary to attend this meeting and in the name of democracy and a square deal for President Franklin D. Roosevelt, the greatest president in the history of this nation, earnestly and actively help put this program over."

The state committee also is expected to fix the date for the state primary at its meeting tomorrow, although there are reports that this matter may be deferred.

Judge Morris' Letter.

Following is Judge Morris' letter to committee members: "I write to remind you of the fact that the chairman of the state democratic executive committee has issued a call for this committee to convene at the Ansley hotel roof garden in Atlanta, on April 15, at 11 o'clock a. m. central standard time. It is very important that you attend this meeting."

"The democrats generally throughout the state, as expressed through the newspapers of the state, resolutions of county democratic executive committees and other democratic organizations, are demanding the right to express their preference by ballot for the presidential nomination. To deny them this right would be in violation of the fundamental principles of democracy. It would be contrary to the customs and uses of the democratic party of this state as uniformly followed. It would be in violation of the Manchukuan government and through him Japan had sought to extend its influence among Mongol tribes in western Manchukuo and inner and outer Mongolia.

A Japanese communique asserted Ling Sheng had been in touch with the soviet since 1929, when the communists sent a punitive expedition into northwest Manchuria because of a conflict over the Chinese Eastern railway.

Since then Ling Sheng, long a leader in a campaign for Mongol unity and independence, said the communique, had supplied information to Russia, while pretending loyalty to Manchukuo since its creation in 1932.

The communique indicated a serious setback to the Japanese policy of using Mongol leaders to maintain control of Mongol regions of western Manchukuo and to extend Japanese influence.

Dispatches from Hainking said Japanese military headquarters announced another clash with soviet soldiers. The latest incident took place between a Japanese patrol of 20 and 50 soviet soldiers Saturday on a sand bar in the Ussuri river, a communique said.

The Japanese, the announcement continued, were fired on by the Russians, who were joined in the fight by a near-by Manchukuan force. Neither casualties nor the result of the fighting was mentioned.

TOKYO ARMY INSTALLS
EQUIPMENT AT BORDER

Ulan Bator, which amounted to $4,000,000 last year, is completely suspended while border restrictions are tightened.

Many believe the first Japanese step if hostilities come would be to take over Kalgan and convert it into a base of operations.

A gloomy outlook on the situation was expressed by Chinese officials, Mongol leaders, consular authorities and foreign traders interviewed by the Associated Press.

Japanese military trucks are plying ceaselessly between Kalgan and northern points.

The Japanese army, meanwhile, has missed no opportunity to cultivate the friendship and support of Mongol princes in the buffer zone between Chahar and the outer Mongolian frontier.

One of the most powerful of these princes, Teh Wang, is rumored to be making repeated calls upon neighboring princes in an airplane presented to him by the Japanese army while professing loyalty to the Chinese Nanjing government.

A Japanese military mission is said to be stationed in his palace, only 80 miles from the outer Mongolian frontier.

The newly-built 100-mile highway connecting Ulan Bator with Kalgan and the road to Ulan Bator would enable the Japanese to dispatch troops and munitions by truck to the outer Mongolian frontier at a few hours notice.

"Should the state committee deny the voters this right and undertake to elect delegates to the national democratic convention, it would be in excess of and beyond any authority conferred upon them and would, therefore, be null and void and of no effect. Should a majority of the committee proceed irregularly and refuse to call a presidential preference primary, I feel that the minority of the committee should stay regular, remain in session, and pass a resolution calling for such primary and provide rules and regulations for the same. At a meeting in Atlanta on Thursday of last week, James A. Allen, Roosevelt campaign manager; A. B. Lovett, chairman of the Roosevelt advisory committee, together with several other prominent members of that committee who were present, assured me that if we would do this, they would publicly approve and endorse this procedure.

"I feel certain you are in sympathy with this movement, and I want to urge you to make whatever sacrifice is necessary to attend this meeting and in the name of democracy and a square deal for President Franklin D. Roosevelt, the greatest President in the history of this nation, to earnestly and actively help put over this program. Won't you do this?"

Years ago careful buyers rejected vague methods of measurement of their purchases, and demanded that the merchant "get down to brass tacks," and measure by the accurately spaced row of brass tacks on the counter. Loose claims made for many ranges today make this even more necessary.

Which One of These Is Really Dangerous?Driver Who Thinks He's Campbell As Dangerous as Any Other Maniac

The driver has the privilege of using the streets and highways only as long as he does so in a proper manner. Notwithstanding that this principle is generally recognized, it seems to be difficult to rid the streets and highways of the careless and reckless driver. It seems to be the impression, in theory as well as in practice, that a person should be permitted to drive as he pleases as long as he is able to pay for the injuries or the damages he causes. The fellow who, for example, thinks he's Napoleon—everyone knows the type—isn't allowed to run loose. Not at all. Even if such a person isn't put somewhere to be cured, he is not permitted to play around with potentially dangerous implements.

But how about the driver who thinks he's Sir Malcolm Campbell? That is the fellow who thinks that he can do anywhere from 60 to 100 miles an hour on the highway, and very often does. Shouldn't society demand that such a driver be kept out of circulation? The answer to that question will depend largely upon how many think they are capable of driving at excessive speeds. People have been heard to say, "Well, maybe what you say about speed is true, but it's different with me because I'm a good driver." The driver has yet to be found who admits he may be a little under par at times. Often the more under par a driver may happen to be, the more he is likely to think he's a Sir Malcolm Campbell. People are funny that way.

As a driver, are you actually sane—or somewhat otherwise? Sane drivers consider it their right and duty to protect themselves and others from death or injury in automobile accidents by driving carefully. They are the drivers who have responded by the thousands to the plea of The Constitution Safety Council for sane and careful driving. Any motorist who is not mentally deranged realizes his responsibility and the necessity of safe driving. And he realizes that by following the seven simple rules of safety contained in the Safety Council's safe driving pledge he is taking out the most effective kind of insurance.

Clip out the pledge found in this issue, sign it and mail it to the Safety Council, Atlanta Constitution, with a stamped, self-addressed envelope. Your return envelope will bring you two attractive pledge signers stickers for the front and rear windows of your car. Place them on your car as a reminder of the necessity of safe driving and as an advertisement to others that you are forming a new front in the war against death and injury from needless automobile crashes.

CAROLINA ROAD BILL REJECTION EXPECTEDAlabama Legislature Plans To Speed Up Relief Measure.

By the Associated Press.

The make-up of a highway reorganization bill to be passed by the South Carolina assembly indicated to some observers today that legislative history of a year ago would be repeated.

They said the bill embodies the essentials of one enacted by the legislature and vetoed by Governor Olin Johnston last spring. The governor, silent on his course, was expected by persons close to him, to reject the present bill.

A conference report on the bill goes to the two chambers for action today.

Alabama's legislature, convening in its 22nd week Tuesday, planned to speed plans for relief and revenue.

In the Kentucky legislature, the house defeated Monday the personal and corporate income tax bill by which Governor Chandler hoped to obtain $3,000,000 of the $12,000,000 he has asked the assembly to raise at its current special session.

P. O. TO HOLD MAIL OF TREASURE HUNTU. S. Will Detain Letters Pending Outcome of Injunction Hearing.

WASHINGTON, April 13.—(AP)—Thomas G. Lamplugh, president, said today that a federal judge had instructed Postmaster General Farley to hold all mail of the Grant National Treasure Hunt pending a hearing on its demand for an injunction to prevent postal authorities from marking mail addressed to them "fraudulent" and returning it to the sender.

Such instructions were given postmasters under a "fraud order" issued by the Postoffice Department Friday. Attorneys for the treasure hunt said that, under the order, the mail would be impounded in the postoffices, and not returned to senders, until Justice F. Dickinson Letts, of the District of Columbia supreme court, can hear the organization's argument that it was unfairly barred from use of the mails by the department's finding that it operated a lottery.

3 FILM OPERATORS HELD IN "BENEFIT"Others Take Over Projectors as Police "Raid" Tupelo Fund Show.

HATTIESBURG, Miss., April 13.—(AP)—Three motion picture machine operators were under bond here today after their arrest Sunday while engaged in showing a film to raise money for the Tupelo tornado relief fund.

Those bonded were Lewis Hammack, L. J. Brown and K. E. McNair. Hammack and Brown were arrested twice each and McNair once. All were charged with exhibiting a moving picture on Sunday.

As each operator was escorted to police headquarters another took his place at the projector and the show continued with brief interruptions. No tickets were sold to the show but two days were placed at the theater door and patrons dropped donations into these receptacles. A total of $54.96 was raised.

WOMAN IS SENTENCED IN MANNA VIOLATION

NEW YORK, April 13.—(AP)—Mae Scheib, operator of a Pittsburgh disorderly house, was sentenced today to four years in the federal penitentiary and fined $5,000.

Joseph Ryan, co-defendant, was sentenced to 15 months' imprisonment. The two were convicted last week of transporting five girls from Pittsburgh to New York for immoral purposes in violation of the Mann act.

BROOKINGS STUDY SAYS LINT POLICY 'MISTAKE'Growers Must Cut Prices To Regain Market, It Asserts.

WASHINGTON, April 13.—(AP)—A Brookings institution report today termed the government's cotton loan policy a "serious mistake" and responsible for a large part of the decrease in consumption of American staple.

The report by Henry I. Richards, was the sixth study of major crops included in the old AAA production control program.

It said the final result of the cotton control program probably would be a net gain to farmers, but that this gain would be slower than the total benefit payments during the past three years.

Reduction in cotton production during the three years of crop control was said to have increased growers' income by about $276,000,000, while a total of approximately $416,000,000 was paid in federal benefits.

The price advances attributable to cotton loans and crop restrictions, the institution said, was expected to be more than offset in the future by losses from expansion of foreign production and decreased foreign consumption of American cotton.

The report said the extent to which foreign markets were lost under the AAA cotton program, could not be measured accurately, but as the price of American cotton was forced upward, foreign mills turned more and more to foreign cotton.

If the foreign market is to be regained, it asserted, prices of American cotton must fall relatively low as compared with those for the foreign staple. The cotton loan policy was blamed for larger reductions in production than would have been made otherwise.

ASKS REUNION BIDS.

NASHVILLE, April 13.—(AP)—General Harry Rene Lee, commander-in-chief of the United Confederate Veterans, today called for bids from southern cities for the 47th annual reunion in 1937.

Byrns Hints President May Insist On Process Levies To Hike Revenue

WASHINGTON, April 13.—(AP)—A strong hint from Speaker Byrns that the administration might try to swing a reluctant congress back to processing taxes focused sharply today the question of whether the tax program would reach the revenue goal set by President Roosevelt.

"I think the President is going to insist on having enough revenue," the speaker said.

He added to newsmen, however, that he was not conceding the revenue program evolved by the house ways and means committee was "ah" of totals set by democratic committee-men in writing it.

Republican members have predicted from the outset that the projected new tax bill would not come up to estimated yields and would fall far short of the $792,000,000 sought by the President in the first three years and the $620,000,000 annually thereafter.

Proposals which the committee has adopted were aimed at producing $799,000,000 the first year and $616,000,000 in succeeding years.

Nevertheless, three treasury officials argued in public hearings before the committee that these would not come up to the revenue requirements listed by the President and urged that the committee consider additional sources of temporary revenue.

The committee turned down scheduled hearings.

COLORADO GOVERNOR TO SEEK SENATE SEAT

MAY 1 PROCLAIMED CHILD HEALTH DAY

MACDONALD TO ENTER NURSING HOME TODAY

LONDON, April 13.—(AP)—Ramsay MacDonald, former prime minister, will enter a nursing home tomorrow for a minor operation.

The treatment, the nature of which was not disclosed, will keep the British member of parliament from his duties for at least a fortnight.

MacDonald's health was partly responsible for his resignation from the premiership last June and he has recently been under a heavy strain because of Italo-Ethiopian and Locarno negotiations in which he has taken an active part.

12TH AIR CRASH VICTIM SUCCUMBS TO INJURIES

UNIONTOWN, Pa., April 13.—(AP)—C. C. Challinor, 34, died tonight, the twelfth victim of the TWA Sun Kacer's crash on a desolate mountain side.

The young engineer and steel salesman died about 6:15 p. m. (Atlantic time), after surgeons twice had amputated, part of his left leg in a desperate effort to save his life.

The widow and his two children, Rosalind, 14, and Jack, 12, were at the bedside. The parents, Mr. and Mrs. Challinor, of Clarksburg, W. Va., also were there.

INSTALLMENT II.

"Excuse me, gentlemen, but there's nothing natural about that," Longfellow told them. "Somebody here must be crazy and I guess it must be me—because if I had a grocery store that wasn't paying, I'd go out of the business. I don't see why the same thing doesn't apply to opera. Well, gentlemen, you'll have to excuse me now for I must go. Thank you for making me chairman."

With that Longfellow and Cobb left the flabbergasted directors. But Cobb, with a malicious gleam in his eyes, poked his head back in through the door a moment later. "You'll find the smelling salts in the medicine chest, gentlemen," he said.

With equal bluntness, Longfellow disposed of a conniving lawyer who came to him as the attorney for a woman who claimed to be his late uncle's common law wife. After Cobb and the others had left and after Cobb had said his farewells for the night, Longfellow decided that he would set out by himself, have dinner at some quiet restaurant and explore the city. As he left the house Babe Bennett, who had been waiting for just this opportunity, started to walk toward him. She staggered ever so slightly as she passed him and, when she came to a tree she clutched at it weakly and then crumpled to the ground. Longfellow rushed to her side and lifted her head from the sidewalk. Babe opened her eyes, feigned bewilderment. Longfellow smiled at her. "You fainted," he explained. "Can I help you?"

Babe struggled weakly to her feet. "No, thank you," she said. "I'm all right." Then, once again, she appeared to become faint and leaned heavily against him, dropping her purse as she did. "Guess I walked too much today," she explained. "Been looking for a job. Found one, too. I start tomorrow."

Longfellow stooped to pick up her purse and its contents which had scattered around. He noted, as Babe had hoped he would, that she had no money in the purse. He looked thoughtfully for a moment and then he glanced up at Babe understandingly.

"Come on, Miss," he said. "You're a lady in distress and I'm going to be your gallant knight. Let's be begin by your having dinner with me. All right?"

Babe appeared to hesitate for a moment and then she smiled at him. "Thank you, Mr. Deeds," she said. "I'll go with you."

Longfellow smiled. "It's all over now. I got it off my chest. I think you're swell." Morrow continued. "You're my guest from now on."

"Thanks, but Miss Dawson (That's the name Babe had given him) and I were going out to see the sights."

"Fine. Hop aboard my magic carpet and you'll see sights you've never seen before. Friend, we're going on a real, good binge."

Late the next afternoon Walter Deeds' valet, was having his troubles making Longfellow. After a particularly violent shake, Longfellow opened one eye and looked at Walter.

"Good afternoon, sir," Walter said. "If you'll permit me to say so, sir, you were out on quite a bender last night."

"Bender?" Longfellow shook his head. "Oh, no. We started to go out on a binge but we never got to it. Has Miss Dawson called yet?"

"Miss Dawson? No, sir."

"I must call her up and apologize. I don't remember taking her home."

"I'd venture to say you don't remember much of anything last night."

"What do you mean?" Longfellow was indignant. "I remember everything. Hand me my pants."

Walter smiled apologetically. "You have no pants, sir. You came home without them. Matter of fact you came home without any clothes. You were in your shorts."

Longfellow was skeptical. "Now, couldn't I walk around the streets without clothes. I'd be arrested."

Walter agreed. "Yes, sir. That's what the two policemen who brought you home said. They said you and another man were standing in the street in your shorts, feeding doughnuts to a horse and shouting 'Back to nature!' They said you were feeding doughnuts to the horse to see how many he'd eat before asking for a cup of coffee."

Longfellow shook a finger at Walter. "If a man by the name of Morrow calls me, Walter, tell him I'm not in. That man is crazy, Walter."

At that moment Cobb burst into Longfellow's bedroom, his hands filled with newspapers. "Well," he shouted, "have you gone nuts? What did you do last night? Who were you with? Why did you do it? Look at these papers!" He flung the stream of papers at Longfellow. Screaming headlines jumped at Longfellow.

"CINDERELLA MAN ON A PIREE"

Feeding Doughnuts to Horses
Hick Town Post Laureate Shows
Big City How to "Cut Up"
Punches Literary Lights at Jullio's

Longfellow jumped out of bed. "What do they mean by this?" he demanded. "Cinderella Man?"

"Listen, Longfellow," Cobb pleaded. "you're got brains. You'll get along fine if you'll only control your homicidal instincts. And keep your trap shut. Don't talk to anybody. Those reporters are laying for you."

"You're right," said Longfellow. "I mustn't talk to anybody."

"Beg pardon, sir," Walter interrupted. "Miss Dawson on the phone."

Longfellow beamed. "I'll talk to her." Hand me the phone. She's the only one I'm going to talk to from now on."

Babe Bennett was worried. She stared moodily at the chimneys and the tangle of radio aerials that stretched away from her apartment window. Her roommate, Mabel Dawson, sensed Babe's mood.

"What's the matter, hon?" she asked.

"Nothing," Babe stilled out the window.

My unfailing instinct tells me that something is going on with the stew," Mabel persisted. Babe turned from the window and crossed to Mabel. "Mabel, that guy is either the dumbest, the stupidest, the most imbecile idiot in the world—or he's the grandest thing alive. I can't make him out."

Mabel nodded knowingly. "Uh-huh," she said. Babe rushed on, trying to make Mabel understand. "Here's a guy that's wholesome and fresh—and he looks like a freak to us. Know what he told me today? When he marries he wants to carry the bride over the threshold in his arms."

"The guy's balmy!"

But Babe wasn't so sure. "Is he? I thought so. Do. I tried to laugh but I couldn't. It stuck in my throat. He's got goodness, Mabel. I know what I'm going to do. I'm going to stop crucifying him. I'm going to pack up and get out of town—right away!"

"You're acting like a schoolgirl," Mabel protested. "Running away is no solution."

Some people who try every summer to acquire a coat of fashionable tan will never achieve their desire, for there are many people who do not and cannot tan. These people are called "Heliophobes." They are morbidly sensitive to the sun's rays, and their skin will redden, blister and burn—but it will never tan. Their skin lacks the ability to manufacture the pigment we call tan. Heliophobes often experience a depressed and "blue" feeling when subjected to the direct rays of the sun. Most people are more likely than others to be heliophobes; this being common among Nordics.

UNCLE RAY'S CORNER

WINING POWER OVER STEAM.

II—James Watt.

"Can you repair this pump so I may show my students how it works?"

It was a professor speaking, a professor at the University of Glasgow.

In his hands he held a model of Newcomen's steam pump, which was being widely used to take water out of coal mines.

The idea led Watt to build a new model, and great was his joy when he found it worked better than Newcomen's pump. The months passed and he kept adding one thing or another to make a more steam-running engine. In the year 1780 Watt took out his first patent—for a steam engine which was the best known up to that time. To prove his claims he used a small model. He did not have enough money to build an engine of full size.

In the hope of raising money Watt went to John Roebuck, head of an iron foundry, and said to him: "If you will be my partner, and will pay the cost of building engines to put on the market, you may have two-thirds of the profits."

'SMALL TOWN GIRL' LIVES DAY IN BIG CITY

the role of William's "small town girl." "Would she visit Atlanta for a day?" wrote Eddie Melnick, manager of the Grand, and Lillie May Robinson, feature editor of The Constitution.

"I'll be thrilled," Helen replied. "Next Monday will suit me just fine."

And so, with a more mature and restrained imagery but yet with one as fanciful as a child's upon reading of Aladdin and his lamp, Helen arrived excited and happy at an Atlanta bus terminal early yesterday. There stood Miss Robinson and Mr. Melnick, "she was sure," and the day had just begun!

First Day in City.

This was her first day in a city. She beheld through winsome eyes, and with the charming originality that comes only to those who live among the mountains and away from people and noise, a thousand novelties and mysteries which her city sister might never see.

At Dawsonville, an isolated town about 60 miles from Atlanta, there are no railroads, no telephones and no telegraph stations.

But here Helen saw her first tall building, street car, city bus, neon sign, giant department store, luxurious hotel and magnificent motion picture theater, with its incredible "talkies."

For the first time she sped upward in an elevator and rode among a thousand wonders in a limousine with a liveried chauffeur. All of the city's "service" and ingenious means of comfort were placed at her beck and call.

Helen continually spoke her admiration. She is a well-knit, slightly tall girl, with brown hair and soft eyes. She wore a green hat and dress. Her enthusiastic comments began at the terminal and continued throughout the day. And here's how Helen spent her day.

Thrilled With Suite.

She was audibly "thrilled" with her suite at one of Atlanta's most luxurious hotels, where she spent last night and went to often to change her clothes. With no fear of being naive, she carefully laid out her dresses for the single day and night and inspected her room for all its comforts. She knew, however, she must hurry in order to see countless other places as charming and new.

With her escorts, she left immediately for a beauty parlor. She knew, from reading the things the ladies have done to their hair, faces and hands. She got the latest wave; she had her eyes touched so she'd have an air of sophistication. Then, glancing at herself in the mirror, she voiced her satisfaction by saying, "Now, let's go."

She rode next to a fashionable department store. She enhanced her wardrobe with one of those "off-the-front" hats; a stylish dress, with a carelessly swung collar and a pair of sharp-pointed, high-heeled shoes.

"Is it all right that I have all these things?" she asked. "There's no way for me to have a better time than just riding and seeing."

To Swanky Restaurant.

But next she went with her city friends to a restaurant with a sea-faring name and with marine decorations about the walls.

"Um-m, that has color!" she exclaimed, as the head-waiter bowed her into one of the private stalls. She suggested that one of her friends or-

The Atlanta influence is responsible for the change here in Helen Gilleland, 17-year-old high school student of Dawsonville, The Constitution's "small-town girl," who spent her first day yesterday in a metropolitan city when she came to Atlanta. On the left she is shown with Eddie Melnick, manager of Loew's Grand theater, and Lillie

May Robinson, feature editor of The Constitution, shortly after her arrival at the bus terminal. On the right is the same Helen plus Atlanta clothes and also plus the memories of a day of novel and exciting experiences which were climaxed when she attended "Small-Town Girl," the motion picture now playing at Loew's Grand theater. Ethridge Resigns Richmond Post To Join Louisville Courier-Journal

RICHMOND, Va., April 13.—(AP)—Mark F. Ethridge, president and publisher of the Richmond Times-Dispatch, has resigned to become on May 1 general manager of the Louisville Courier-Journal and Louisville Times, of Louisville, Ky.

The Times-Dispatch board of directors, in making the announcement, added that Mr. Ethridge would continue as president and publisher of the Times-Dispatch until June 1. A successor will be announced prior to the time his resignation here becomes effective.

Mr. Ethridge came to Richmond as general manager of the Times-Dispatch in December, 1934, and was elected president and publisher the following April.

For nine years he was associated with the Macon (Ga.) Telegraph as managing editor and as associate editor. Later he was a member of the Washington staff of the Associated Press and then assistant general manager of the Washington Post.

In his new position in Louisville, Mr. Ethridge will be associated with Judge Robert Worth Bingham, now United States ambassador to Great Britain, and the latter's son, Barry Bingham. In addition to the two papers, Mr. Ethridge will have general charge of the Courier-Journal radio station, WLAS.

The statement from the Times-Dispatch board of directors said: "The departure of Mr. Ethridge is a source of deep regret to the directors of the Times-Dispatch. During his more than a year as president and publisher of this newspaper, the circulation has reached its highest mark and his efforts have contributed substantially toward increasing its effectiveness as an instrument of public service to this city and to the state. The directors are grateful, however, that in severing his connection, Mr. Ethridge is entering a larger field. There will go with him good wishes for the success to which his fine capabilities and background of large experience entitle him."

GAS MIXTURE STUDIES WIN LONGMUIR PRIZE

KANSAS CITY, April 13.—(AP)—A 28-year-old assistant professor at Cornell, acknowledged to have outstripped some of the world's best minds of any age in molecular chemistry research, was awarded the $1,000 Langmuir prize for 1935 by the American Chemical Society today.

The professor, John Gamble Kirkwood, has contributed considerably to the theory of compressed gases and mixture of gases, said Dr. E. R. Weidman, director of the Mellon Institute of Industrial Research, Pittsburgh.

Founded by A. C. Langmuir, of Hastings-on-Hudson, N. Y., the award is made annually to encourage creative work by chemists under 30.

WHITE HOUSE EGG ROLL ATTRACTS BIG CROWD

WASHINGTON, April 13.—(UP)—The carefully nurtured White House lawn was trampled today by the feet of 45,528 men, women and children of all ages and several races, there for the annual Easter egg-rolling.

The cleaning squad rushed in when the gates closed at 4 p. m. (Atlantic time) and in an hour had taken away several truckloads of paper, crushed eggs, burst balloons, peanut shells, and mashed Easter baskets.

A new kind of combustion engine invented in Germany can be operated either as a gas engine or a Diesel engine.

U. S. MISSIONARIES FEAR CHINESE REDS

4,000 Reported Killed, 7,000 Wounded; Communists Retreating.

NANKING, China, April 13.—(AP)—The American embassy called to the attention of the Chinese government Sunday reports of communist activity in Yunnan province, possibly endangering a sizeable group of American missionaries there.

Reports from the American consulate at Yunnan-Fu, capital of the province, said large bodies of reds had approached within 40 miles of the city, causing uneasiness among the 75 members of the foreign community.

4,000 ARE REPORTED SLAIN IN BATTLE

TAIWANFU, SHANSI PROVINCE, China, April 13.—(AP)—Provincial authorities asserted today 4,000 men were killed and 7,000 wounded in battles between communists and government troops and that the reds are now retreating to the west.

Scores of American and other missionaries were endangered when the red armies recently invaded Shansi. Officials said the communists are taking with them large numbers of wounded comrades, but in order to hasten their retreat are burying alive wounded beyond hope of recovery.

ROOSEVELT TO DECIDE

WASHINGTON, April 13.—(AP)—Communications commission officials said today the President probably would be asked to decide whether additional funds should be sought to continue the $750,000 FCC investigation of the American Telephone and Telegraph Company. The commission already has spent about $335,000, officials said, and unless congress appropriates an additional sum the investigation will end July 1.

STORM LOAN REPORT ADOPTED BY SENATE

House Action Expected Today on $50,000,000 Bill To Aid Rebuilding.

WASHINGTON, April 13.—(AP)—The senate today adopted the conference report on the $50,000,000 Reconstruction Finance Corporation flood and storm relief bill and sent it to the house where action was expected tomorrow.

At the same time Chairman Copeland, democrat, New York, predicted the senate commerce committee would send a $400,000,000 omnibus flood control bill to the senate for final action before the end of the week.

Copeland called an executive meeting of the committee for tomorrow to consider the final form of the legislation.

Through Representative Ferguson, democrat, Oklahoma, house flood control committee member, the army engineers submitted to Copeland today a new policy statement. It stipulated that no flood control money should be appropriated unless the government gets land for projects without cost; the government is freed from responsibility for damage to property, the states maintain the works after completion; the states contribute 50 per cent of the cost of levees and channel improvements and the states guarantee to maintain and operate the projects.

The declaration also says no government money shall be allocated for projects unless a state or political subdivision shall convince Secretary Dern that it has adopted a soil conservation policy satisfactory to Secretary Wallace.

Under the RFC flood and storm loan relief bill the corporation would be authorized to take into consideration the "emergency" conditions confronting industry and governmental agencies in southern storm and eastern flood areas and to lend on "reasonable" terms for rehabilitation of plants and machinery, highways, bridges and schools.

It also would direct the National Housing Administration to ease restrictions on government insurance of private loans for rehabilitation.

FOUR SUGGESTED FOR KING'S WIFE

Edward Recently Asked Parliament To Consider "Contingency."

PARIS, April 13.—(AP)—The names of four English noblewomen were suggested today as possibilities to become the wife of King Edward and queen of the British empire.

The suggestion was made by Francis Chancel in the newspaper Paris Midi.

The four women are Lady Anne Hope, 22, daughter of the viceroy of India; Lady Mary Grosvenor, 26, daughter of the Duke of Westminster; Lady Angela Montagu-Douglas Scott, 20, sister of the Duchess of Gloucester; and Lady Lettice Ashley-Cooper, 25, daughter of the Earl of Shaftesbury.

King Edward, who recently asked parliament to consider "the contingency" of his marriage in establishing the monarch's civil list, must fulfill only one legal requirement in choosing a bride. He must marry a Protestant.

BURNSTINE IS LEADING BRIDGE TOURNAMENT

NEW YORK, April 13.—(AP)—With defending Champion Oswald Jacoby trailing in 21st place, David Burnstine, his teammate, led the field tonight after the opening session of the annual National Masters' contract bridge tournament.

Burnstine piled up 137 points to top the 38 invited experts. Mrs. Robert B. Fuller, of New York, one of the four women in the tournament, was second with 134 1-2 points.

Other than Jacoby's failure to finish with the leaders, the only upset was the eighth place garnered by Miss Helen Bonwit, of New York, with 122 points. Jacoby scored 111 1-2.

The Masters is considered the sternest test in competitive contract as each player plays once with every other player and twice with every player as an opponent. Twenty-eight boards are played a session.

Last year Jacoby defeated Burnstine by one point for the title. They are both members of the Four Aces team and pair together in the combination.

Youth in the Saddle Is Order of Day For Saturday's Riding Contest

By Sally Forth.

YOUTH in the saddle will be the order of the day on Saturday when more than 100 young Atlanta equestrians will put their mounts through the gaits at the spring contest at the Billmore riding ring on Rosboro road under direction of Dr. and Mrs. A. S. Wheeler. Fond mamas and papas, and older sisters and brothers, as well as many of Atlanta's grown-up riders, will assemble on the near-by sloping hillside and around the white rail fence to watch these accomplished youngsters follow the judges' call of walk, trot and canter.

The show, to which the public is invited, is scheduled to begin promptly at 1 o'clock, when the riders will enter the ring astride their mounts in grand march style and wearing the smartest of riding togs. Several sub-debs who will ride are home from school for the spring holidays and will remain until after Saturday in order to participate in this important occasion. Among these is Ann McGonigal, who is enrolled at Rosemary school in Greenwich, Conn. Ann is considered an expert horsewoman for one of her tender years. She will ride her own handsome mount, Rooster Bill, whom she calls Sonny, in next Saturday's show. And Sally hears that so devoted is Ann to Sonny that upon her arrival here from school she rushed directly from the railroad station to the stables to greet him. Nancy Cullen, another school belle remaining over for the show, Nancy will ride her sleek little mare, Butterfly, and immediately after the contest she will entrain for Charleston to resume her studies at Ashley Hall.

Billy Williamson's new Kentucky blooded pony, Peg-of-My-Heart, will no doubt win blue ribbons for her owner, when she steps high around the ring. She will ride her own handsome mount, Rooster Bill, whom she calls Sonny, in next Saturday's show. And Sally hears that so devoted is Ann to Sonny that upon her arrival here from school she rushed directly from the railroad station to the stables to greet him. Nancy Cullen, another school belle remaining over for the show, Nancy will ride her sleek little mare, Butterfly, and immediately after the contest she will entrain for Charleston to resume her studies at Ashley Hall.

Ann Egan and her brother, Bill, will make a striking duo riding in the pair class, with Ann up on her black mare and Bill astride the big gray gelding, Silver Mist. Another stunning pair riding in this class will be Mary Jane Brock, who will ride her five-gaited puredred, Esquire, and Bobby Bray, who will be her partner, astride High Tide.

Betty Ann Bird, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Bird, will show her fine mount, Chocolate Soldier, who has won many blue ribbons in Tennessee and Kentucky. It will be Chocolate Soldier's first appearance in Atlanta, and with Betty Ann as his rider he is sure to win blue and the applause from the show's hundreds of spectators.

A feature of the show will be the appearance of several of Atlanta's debutantes of the past season. Immediately after their debutante season was over Belle Scott Meador, Mary Hurt and Rebecca Young decided to take up equestrianism. With their friends, Bright Bickstaff, Dorothy Coates, Emily Timmerman, Sarah Simms, Julie McClatchey and Jennie Champion, they formed a class. These novices have practiced daily the technique of horsemanship and on Saturday they will trot their mounts around the ring like "old-timers."

It isn't possible for Sally Forth to name each of the young riders who will participate in this annual spring contest. But information reveals that no less than 125 boys and girls of Atlanta's socially prominent are listed among the entries.

When auburn-haired Helen Menken comes to town this week to play a leading role in "The Old Maid," she will be greeted by admiring friends made when she appeared in a stock company at the same theater several years ago. Her charm and versatility were easily recognized and personable Helen Menken formed friendships with prominent Atlantans.

Mrs. Don Pardee, whose apartment was next door to that of the well-known actress, became one of her greatest admirers and they enjoyed many happy hours together. When Lois Hardy, of Senoia, was in the cast of "Lily White," a play starring Helen Menken, she played a minor role and was understudy to the star.

"The Old Maid" is the Pulitzer prize play of 1935, and the gifted actress takes the role of Charlotte, the crinolined-gowned spinster cousin. She enacts with Judith Anderson a drama of unending struggle and yearning for the affections of a child.

My Day

By ELEANOR ROOSEVELT

WASHINGTON, Sunday.—Such a house full of young people as we have, but it is very pleasant. My daughter and son-in-law, my niece and nephew, Eleanor and Daniel Roosevelt, went off and rode most of Saturday morning. I only had an hour, so I had to ride alone and get home in time to see Miss Helen Alfred, who wanted to talk over some housing problems.

Governor Winant, of the Social Security Board, and Colonel Westbrook, of the Works Progress Administration, came to lunch. In the afternoon we were visited by the seniors and juniors of the Tivoli and Staatsburgh, New York, high schools. Tivoli is the village near where I lived all of my girlhood on my grandmother's place, and Staatsburgh is just five miles from Hyde Park, so these 50-odd young people had a special claim on my hospitality.

After that, the national head of the various women's auxiliaries belonging to the American Federation of Labor came in to tea and we had a little chat about some of their interests. Finally a swim with the young people and then dinner to which came Mrs. Greenway and her daughter and son-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Braester.

This morning Mrs. Scheider and I got up and for the fourth time attended the sunrise service which takes place at 7:30 a. m. in Arlington. It is held by the Knights Templar, and at the close of the service in the amphitheater they placed a beautiful cross of lilacs on the tomb of the Unknown Soldier.

By 9 o'clock I was home again for breakfast with the family and at 10:45 we all went to the Easter service at St. Thomas' church, after which my husband and I stopped off to see Colonel Howe at the hospital. By 3 o'clock the rain, which had actually begun to fall about 10 a. m., stopped, and the sun tried its best to struggle through. April showers are good for growing things I know, but I am wondering how well the White House grounds are going to stand the thousands of people tomorrow.

Here Comes Idaho In Our Roll Call of State Quilt Patterns.

By FLORENCE LA GANKE.

Idaho

This block always makes me think of of gross-grain ribbon that folds in and out, and up and down around a center square. I suppose that pieces of ribbon, scraps of velvet and silk can be used for this pillow in place of the usual log cabin in which they are pieced. But after all this is designed for a modern quilt top. It belongs in my state series, and I am getting some exceedingly pretty patterns from readers all over the country. First thing you know, we will have 48 patterns—each one named after its own state.

The Nancy Page quilt club members said they would write to relatives and friends living in the various states so Nancy could complete her series. The members clipped the picture and directions in today's paper. Then they sent for the direction leaflet. They may be obtained by following the instructions given below. They traced the various patterns onto lightweight cardboard. They cut these out. In the meantime they had pasted the direction sheet into the Nancy Page quilt book. In this pattern, as in all of Nancy's, no seams are allowed. This means that one-quarter or one-eighth inch must be allowed on all sides when cutting the material.

Nancy advises her members to lay the cardboard patterns on the goods, to trace around the outline with a pencil and in cutting to allow the extra quarter inch beyond the pencilled line. Seaming is done on the pencilled line.

Nancy uses No. 80 white thread for piecing. She starts seams in one-quarter inch from the ends and edges of pieces and ends them that far in, too. That allows her to press the seams open and flat.

This block is put together with alternate blocks of plain white. The color scheme may be two shades of blue or green, or red or yellow with the white. Or two contrasting colors may be used with the white background. Allow two yards of each color and six of white for a double bed size quilt.

The actual pattern for "Idaho Quilt Design" may be obtained by sending 3 cents and a self-addressed envelope to Nancy Page, in care of The Atlanta Constitution. Back patterns may be secured by sending an additional 3 cents for each pattern requested.

Friendly Counsel

By CAROLINE CHATFIELD.

Readers will be interested in this column. Correspondence should be sent to Miss Chatfield, care of The Atlanta Constitution.

Dear Miss Chatfield:

I am 28 years old and my father objects to my fiance merely because he doesn't want me to get married and leave home. He would object to anybody else for the same reason. Most-er has always been my best friend and I wouldn't hurt her for anything. She is not well and on her account it is impossible for me to leave now. I have told father that if he continues to refuse to let my friends come to the house I will go away and make my home elsewhere but he isn't moved by my argument and I can't make good my friend while mother needs

me. She doesn't dare speak to him about my predicament. Can you solve this one? DISTRESSED.

Answer: My dear girl, having passed your first year in dutiful submission to your father's ironclad rule, you will have to begin to make plans for your future, regardless of his tyrannical attitude, otherwise you will be doomed to spend the rest of your life in abject submission to him. Instead of keeping up the argument with him tell your mother that you will see your fiance at the home of some friend. This fiance is likely to appear in the family, satisfy your fiance and enable you to stand by your mother while she needs you. Then when you are ready to be married go ahead and move out.

An impasse between parent and child is tragic beyond words and it marks out a life of strained relationship and heartache for all concerned. How foolish of a father to try to impose his will on his daughter who is almost 30 years old! Why should he expect her to choose a husband to suit him? Even though his choice is a bad one, having made his protest, a wise father will stand aside and let nature take its course. The inevitable result of his trying to force his will upon her is separation from her. For, if she bows to his will, she is bitter toward him for standing between her and the man she loves; and if she defies him, he is bitter toward her and toward the man she marries.

A family feud is started that may never end and while it exists nobody in either family can be happy.

A man hasn't the right to interfere with his daughter's natural desire for love and marriage. If his interference is based merely on his selfish desire to keep her at home with him. Certainly he has mixed emotions when he realizes that marriage means she must leave his dear home as a compromise. What does amount to by comparison with the fact that she has found one she loves and one who loves her? Even though he is not the son-in-law papa would choose, if his blood stream is clean, his moral character good and his prospects for being able to support the daughter fair to middle, papa should swallow his dislike and accept the inevitable. If he won't be sympathetic with his daughter's point of view he must lose her, not only from his home but from his heart.

CAROLINE CHATFIELD.

DEAR MISS CHATFIELD:

two years and find it hard to please her. We don't understand one an-

WAGES AND HOURS VOTED ON IN POLL. Result of Ballot on Employment Problem To Be Revealed Sunday.

When American voters were asked last December by the American Institute of Public Opinion to name the most vital issue facing the country, they said "Unemployment."

Recently they have voted on the advisability of reducing hours of labor—thereby providing jobs for more people—as a solution of this grave problem. They also indicated whether they thought weekly wages, in such a case, should be lowered or let alone.

You'll be interested to know the reactions of the man-in-the-street in this important matter. You'll find them in America Speaks in next Sunday's Atlanta Constitution.

other. Is it possible that marriage would make things right? I believe jealousy is the main trouble between us.

Answer: It is not possible that marriage will make things right between a young couple when they don't understand one another and can't please one another. On the contrary, marriage will more likely increase the misunderstanding for a wife is harder to please than a sweetheart, and likely to be much more disagreeable when she is displeased. Jealousy is a disease that one is born with and cannot be cured by minister, priest or magistrate. CAROLINE CHATFIELD.

Culbertson on Contract. By CLYDE CULBERTSON, World's Champion Bridge Player and Analyst.

PSEUDO BAD BREAK. Recently I ran into an old acquaintance who had not seen me for many years. After the usual amenities, asked him how bridge was treating him. His answer came as a snarl.

"Rotten!" I've been getting breaks that have made me lie awake at night wondering "I'm accused. I'm going to give the blasted game up! Why just last night there was one particular hand—look! I have a record of it here." He took a folded sheet of paper from his pocket. This was the hand:

♠ 10 9
♥ 8 5 3
♦ 10 4 3
♣ K 5 4

WEST
♠ 4 3
♥ K 5
♦ K 6

EAST

♦ J 9 8 7 3
♣ None

SOUTH
♠ A K Q J 8 7 5
♥ A Q
♦ A Q
♣ A 3

"I sat South," my friend said. "Both sides were vulnerable and this was the bidding:"

South West North East
3♠ Pass 2♥ No trump Pass
4♣ Double Redouble Pass
6♠ Double Pass Pass

"I see you use the new asking bids," I said. "That four club bid was good, and so was North's redouble to show the king. I studied the hand for a full minute and went on:

"Well, what's your complaint? The only fault with the contract that I see is that you failed to redouble."

"Redouble!" he howled. "Why I went down 500 points as it was! Wasn't that enough? Don't you see what happened? West opened the queen of clubs and East ruffed! He led back a diamond and, of course, I had to take the finesse, and it lost! Another high club was led and, to hold the penalty to two tricks, I had to duck and concede the trick, rather than let West get in again to come through my heart tenace. I thought I played the hand well to take ten tricks."

I sighed, realizing just how unpleasant a pill I was going to give him to "The hand was ice cold," I said. "Consider for a moment. West doubled the slam bid, didn't he? Well, there wasn't much doubt in my mind, I suppose, that he held both red kings. All you had to do, when East ruffed the opening lead, was to drop your ace on the trick. If West returned you would win. Then run off every trump and lead out your red aces. All hands would be reduced to three cards. Yours would be the queen and the deuce of clubs. Dummy's would be the king and two small clubs. What could West's be? On the tenth trick he would be squeezed. Coming down to three cards, he would have to let go either king or give up his club stopper. In the former case, you simply would lead the queen of the suit in which the king was discarded, and squeeze him again. He couldn't possibly escape!"

He stared at me as though he were seeing ghosts. I couldn't resist one little dig.

"Are all your bad breaks like this one?" I asked.

Question: Is an opening bid of two no trump forcing?

Answer: No. It is merely a strong urge for partner to bid.

TOMORROW'S HAND. North, dealer. Both sides vulnerable, each with a part score of 40.

Haygood Church Forms Setting For Laird-Latimer Wedding Rites

Miss Frances Julia Laird became the bride of George Newton Latimer at an impressive ceremony which took place Sunday afternoon at Haygood Memorial church. The Rev. B. Frank Pim performed the ceremony in the presence of an assemblage of relatives and friends.

Palms and ferns banked the altar, which was centered with an artistic arrangement of Easter lilies. Baskets filled with Easter lilies and seven-branched candelabra holding white tapers adorned the altar. Mrs. A. B. Boring rendered a musical program, accompanied by Charles Johnson.

Ushers were Rembert Laird and Charles Hamby, of Rome. Harold S. Laird, of Huntsville, Ala., was the only groomsmen.

Miss Marian Laird, sister of the bride, was junior bridesmaid. She wore pink crepe de chine with accented pleated skirt. Her hat was a leghorn and her flowers were arranged in the old-fashioned nosegay, displaying a multitude of tints.

Miss Helen Sprayberry, of Rome, cousin of the bride, was the only bridesmaid. She was gown in shell gray, with which she wore a leghorn hat with pink accessories and she carried a bouquet of pink snapdragons and swainswort.

Miss Mae Sprayberry, of Smyrna, aunt of the bride, was the maid of honor. She wore a smart rose model andy ghorn hat. Her flowers were orchid and yellow snapdragons.

The bride was given in marriage by her father, S. L. Laird Sr., with whom she entered the church. They met the bridegroom and his best man, Sam L. Laird Jr., at the altar.

The bride's beauty was accentuated by a becoming model of powder blue crepe, the coat featuring accented pleated sleeves. She wore a powder blue hat and accessories and carried a bouquet of Easter lilies tied with white satin ribbon. A bit of sentiment was attached to the handkerchief she carried, which belonged to Mrs. B. Frank Pim, who carried it when she was married.

Mrs. S. L. Laird Sr., mother of the bride, wore blue sheer with a blue leghorn hat and matching accessories. Her flowers were pink roses. Mrs. Jessie L. Latimer, the bridegroom's mother, was gown in gray. Her accessories were navy blue and her flowers were gardenias.

Mr. and Mrs. Latimer left for their wedding trip to the Magnolia Gardens and other points of interest in the Carolinas. Upon their return they will reside at 870 Ponce de Leon place until taking possession of an apartment.

Among the out-of-town guests were Mr. and Mrs. C. B. Sprayberry, Jack Sprayberry, of Rome; Mr. and Mrs. H. M. Northcutt, of Gahanna; Mr. and Mrs. H. J. Alliance Francaise To Hear Mr. Seydel On Thursday

The Alliance Francaise meets Thursday afternoon at 3:30 o'clock at the home of Mrs. J. O. Sanders, 517 Manor Ridge drive. Paul Seydel will speak on "Les Souveraines de Belgique." Mr. Seydel, by his education and background, is ably qualified to discuss the queens of Belgium. He was born in Brussels and was graduated from the university there. He is a cousin of Adolphe Max, minister of state, and burgomaster of Brussels, whose spirited resistance to the German occupation during the World War is duly recorded in Belgian history. One of Mr. Seydel's brothers, winning royal favor by his entomological collections and his scientific writings, was appointed chief inspector of agriculture in the Belgian Congo, where he gives distinguished service.

Following the lecture, Mrs. Kurt Mueller, chairman of the music committee, will present Mrs. William Elsas, pianist, in two numbers from Debussy, the most important French composer of the modern school. "Jardin sous la Pluie" and "La Danse des Delphes."

The program will conclude with Alfred de Musset's charming one-act play of Parisian society, "Il faut qu'une porte soit ouverte ou fermée." The two principal roles will be taken by the two Agnes Scott exchange students, Mlle Marcelle Cappati from France, and Fraulein Lucie Hess from Germany. At the close of the program there will be the usual social half-hour over the tea cups.

Miss Beers, Fiance Are Honor Guests At Party Series

A unique and delightful event of last evening was the dinner-dance given by Mr. and Mrs. Virgil Shepard at the Capital City Country Club as a complimentary gesture to Miss Judy Beers and her fiance, Rufus McKee-Darby, whose marriage is a forthcoming brilliant event. The hosts were assisted in entertaining by Mr. and Mrs. H. W. Beers, parents of the bride-elect, and Mr. and Mrs. R. C. Darby, parents of the groom-to-be.

The ballroom of the club was attractively decorated in tropical style with palms, coconut trees, and greenery arranged in profusion through the room. The entire room was artistically designed to represent the glamour of the cruise which the young couple will take following the wedding.

Before the orchestra stand at the far end of the room was a large replica of the ship, upon which they will sail, which was beautifully arranged with unusual electric-lighting effects playing upon the artificial water.

The two stately banquet tables were centered with similar copies of the large ship, and place cards were miniature suitcases with baggage checks. Imitation copies of the passports and asterisk appointments were arranged by the place cards of each guest. Dancing was accompanied by a popular orchestra, and guests included members of the Beers-Darby wedding party, families of the young couple, and a number of out-of-town guests.

Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Harris Jr. entertained Sunday at an appetizer party at their home on Habersham road, honoring Miss Beers and her fiance. Assisting in entertaining were Mr. and Mrs. H. W. Beers, parents of the bride-elect, and Mr. and Mrs. Rufus C. Darby, parents of the groom-elect. The bride and groom, the immediate families and the out-of-town guests present for the wedding.

Thomas Faces Messenger in Opener at Chattanooga Today

A Guest Column, by Jimmy Braddock

(Editor's Note: Jimmy Braddock, world's heavyweight champion, supplies this column for Ralph McGill's Break o' Day this morning.)

Before I left Atlanta Monday for Fort Benning and my boxing exhibition there in the evening, Ralph McGill asked me to write a column of my own... telling what I thought about things and something about my plans.

JIMMY BRADDOCK.

Boxing is my game. You don't learn to write if you are wearing boxing gloves. And I've been wearing them for 11 years. But I am glad to try. I'm going in training for the Joe Louis fight in early June. And I'm going back to the docks. I'm going to get a job there without any pay. Or, if there is any man sick and unable to work, I'll take his job and he can have the pay.

I was on the docks working when my manager called me and said he had a fight for me. I hadn't been in a gymnasium for eight months. We had been having our share of hard luck and I'd been working there to keep things going for the wife and the children.

The fight was with Corn Griffin. He came at me and knocked me down early in the second round. It was a hard blow. I found myself down but my head was clear. I knew, to my surprise, I'd taken the punch well. I got up to knock him out. A good game boy.

That started me to thinking. My body, despite the lack of training, took that punch. When I started training I found it easy to get in shape. My body was toughened from that work. I firmly believe that work won me the world's heavyweight championship. It enabled me to go those 15 rounds with Baer and beat him for the title. So I'm going back to the docks before the fight with Louis.

SO THAT'S THAT.

So that's that. I think this about Joe Louis. He must be a good fighter. Everyone who says so can't be wrong. But I don't believe he has had enough experience to give him a background. If he is hit hard or knocked down, he might not know what to do. He hasn't any past experience to fall back on. That means a lot.

I don't think his fights with Carnera or Retzlaff or Levinsky mean much. Everyone else had beaten those fellows. They went in there expecting to get beat. The only man he really had on the floor with a punch was Paulino. And he never beat anyone. Baer won from him.

So I'm not going in there expecting to lose and I'm not going in there afraid of a punch. I never have been. It's no time to be starting.

After 11 years in the ring a fellow picks up some information about the game.

At any rate, I'm going in to win—not to lose. I'm going in there with the idea of keeping the title—not just to get my share of the gate. I'm going to do my best. I think it will be good enough to win.

THAT COME-BACK.

People everywhere have been great to me. And I appreciate it. I like the south. The people are very sincere and I'm glad they like me.

People always congratulate me on what I've done. And I appreciate that. But, after all, a fellow can't take much credit for just keeping on trying. Those were pretty tough days, all right.

But there was my wife and the three kids, Jay, Howard and Rose Marie. And they were worth trying.

Crackers Seeking Third Straight Against 'Weak' Lookout Team.

By Jack Troy.

Luther (Bud) Thomas' face will be red when the Chattanooga-Atlanta game is done this afternoon. But it will only be natural. Thomas is called "tomato face" by the Crackers players because of the color of his face.

The idea is that Bud Thomas' face naturally will be red. But what of the Lookouts, who left Atlanta white-faced and very grim, not to mention glum? Or grumpy?

Atlanta fans may look to the north for a synthetic sunset this afternoon. For the collective glow of the Chattanooga faces will be reflected on the deepening sky.

Manager Eddie Moore and his Crackers have not set a three-game winning streak as their goal, however. They intend to follow up their two home victories with three more at Chattanooga. And they feel that neither the Lookouts, the fans nor jealous Joe (Big Blow) Engel can do anything about it, except blush.

NO OPPOSITION. The Crackers are hopeful of getting some real opposition after they are done with the leering Lookouts, whose only real punch is centered in former Cracker players, Joe Engel, who needs where to go for real players. He scanned the rosters and picked up all cast-off Crackers that were available.

Bud Thomas, who ranks next to Harry Kelley in Cracker victories last season, winning 20 and losing 16, will face Andy Messenger, former Cracker, in today's opener at Chattanooga. Thus there will be four ex-Crackers in the starting lineup for Chattanooga. They will include, besides Messenger, Taft Wright and Freddie Singleton, outfielders, and Harry Taylor, first baseman.

Chances are that Taylor has shown to better advantage in the first two games than Alex Hooks, who replaced Taylor last season when the latter was injured.

HOOKS IN SLUMP. Hooks, it seems, has entered the slump. He is neither hitting nor fielding with Taylor, so far. But it is expected this is only a temporary situation. Alex was a slow starter with the Athletics last summer. He didn't hit his weight or field his looks in the early games. Hooks is okay, however. He is the original good kid. And, withal, a great first baseman.

Manager Eddie Moore planned no changes in the lineup as the team departed last night by train for the big shanty mountains, not to be confused with the great smoky mountains.

Manager Moore said Al Browne would start and play the full game in right. He added, furthermore, that Browne would continue to be used every game. Alameda Al has been doing very well indeed for a rookie put down in such a spot. He is, of course, to report the progress of Big Joe Hutcherson, who is not expected to be of any value to the club this summer.

Hutcherson is definitely out until July, at the earliest. Even if he were able to report in June, he still would need a month to recover from his illness and round into playing shape under a hot sun.

CHATHAM, RICHARDS. The department is pleased to see others recognizing, at last, the potency of Buster Chatham and Paul Richards, the new catcher. This department has maintained along the line that Chatham was a greatly improved shortstop and that Richards, who has one of the greatest throwing arms in baseball, is great improvement over anything Atlanta has had in the position.

In some seasons, it is very pleasing to see others writing along this line, for a change.

In a new and no boasting intended, it was this department that first wrote of the pinch-hitting possibilities of Jim Galvin, the second-string catcher. Galvin is a natural hitter. He has the very valuable hitting known as "the punch in the pinch." Galvin is, appropriately, the No. 1 pinch-hitter.

The Crackers have returned to the 1936 Southern league race with a stronger team than the one with which they started last season. And that considers the loss of Hutcherson and Kelly.

The team, if any, has outscored the Donald Budge, the California red-head, and Betsy Grant, swinging from the baseline in the layout above, meet here today in an important exhibition match at 3:45 o'clock. Davis cup fathers are watching the individual play of the two stars and, it may be, today's match will determine, in large part, which one is selected for the match against Australia at Philadelphia next month.

Gene Mako, another Californian, ranked No. 11, and Billy Reese, of Atlanta, will play in the opening exhibition between Mako and Budge and Grant and Russell Bobbitt will follow the Grant-Budge singles exhibition. All play will take place on the two exhibition courts at the old Biltmore club, Peachtree and Fourth streets, and is being sponsored by Atlanta Lawn Tennis Association.

Connie Mack Releases Yarter

PHILADELPHIA, April 13.—(AP)—The Athletics today made the last pre-season changes in their roster, sending four players to the Williamsport (New York-Penn league) Grays, and releasing another unconditionally.

The Grays gets Pitchers Jim Trexler and Bill Ferrazzi and two other youngsters, Harry Shuman, a Temple University graduate, and Ray Zschau.

Jerome (Bubba) Yarter, young infielder, who comes from Atlanta and played with Galveston last year, was released outright.

Grant, Budge Open Cup Rivalry Here

Match Today at Biltmore Important as Team Fathers Are Evaluating Play of Aces.

By Jack Troy.

There is much more than appears on the surface—speaking of today's extraordinary exhibition between Betsy Grant, phenomenal Atlanta tennis star, and Donald Budge, the California red-head and Betsy's chief rival for the remaining place on the United States Davis cup team.

Budge, ranked No. 2, and Grant, rating a No. 3 position among the nation's players, will meet in an exhibition that will have an important bearing on their fight for the remaining singles position on the United States team that plays Australia next month at Philadelphia.

Davis cup heads are closely watching and evaluating the individual performances of Grant and Budge. And today will be the second time since the national tournament at Forest Hills that cup fathers will have had a chance to compare their play against each other.

Budge defeated Grant in a recent exhibition match at Houston, Texas, 194 1-2, of Ireland, here tonight before a crowd of approximately 1,000 fans. O'Dell, holding a decision over Lipps, was floored twice.

In the semi-final, Ben Brown, 150 1-2, of Atlanta, floored Steve Kadasb, 168, U. S. army, five times to win by a technical knockout after one minute 59 seconds of the fourth round.

Ed McNew, 184 1-2, Richmond, knocked out Ben Johnson, 194, of Baltimore, in 21 seconds of the first round, while Bunker Hill, 159 1-2, of Atlanta, won a six-round decision over Charlie Rondo, 164 1-2, of Wilmington, Del.

Many cities wanted the latest Grant-Budge match, but the Atlanta Lawn Tennis Association, a very enterprising body, has secured the party for the Gate City of the south.

Which is, of course, fair enough. And a very fine tennis party it should be. Bryan Grant will attempt to show the home town fans the best tennis he has ever played here. He has been a bit gun-shy, so to speak, on other occasions against leading stars here. But he is ready now to show the home town people just why it is he is, at his size, a leading contender for the Davis cup team. Budge towers over him in size.

But size doesn't count where Grant is concerned. He whittles 'em down. Grant and Budge will take the court at the old Biltmore Club, Peachtree and Fourth, following the Kene Mako-Billy Reese exhibition at 2:30.

Tennis fans who can't make it at 2:30 may go as late as 8:45 and be there in time to see the start of the Grant-Budge battle.

There will not be a doubles match, inasmuch as both Budge and Grant will be worn out after their singles match.

The admission prices are very reasonable. General admission has been set at $1.10. Students will be admitted for 50 cents each.

Malcolm Courts, prominent member of the Atlanta Lawn Tennis Association and city tennis champion, arranged the attractive program.

Tsk! Tsk! What a Shame! Our Nine Isn't So Good

Those Chattanoogas Saw Us Twice and Lost Twice, But Don't Like Us!

By Ralph McGill.

You could have knocked me over with a truck—At the news from Chattanooga. According to the public prints over there, our ball club isn't so warm.

Mr. Clyde Milan is quoted: "If our noble nine is as bad as all that, it is a bit puzzling as to just where this leaves the Lookouts, who took it on the chin twice and didn't look very good doing so."

Mr. Engel says: "I've got a line on this (Atlanta) club... We're better than they are. They'll not finish in the first division."

This was produced by two consecutive victories over the Chattanoogas by the Atlanta team. Probably after the Crackers have taken three more and the Chattanooga officials have had another look, they will discover the Crackers are even worse than they thought.

All this is a bit confusing, however. If our noble nine is as bad as all that, it is a bit puzzling as to just where this leaves the Lookouts, who took it on the chin twice and didn't look very good doing so.

The Lookouts looked terrible lagging 5-to-1 on Sunday. The Crackers didn't look so good. Twice before Sid Cohen was knocked out of there they had him wobbling and should have done the job. But they were good enough to win, and did.

In the opening game the Lookouts were out-gamed. The game was won on a wild pitch. But what happened before that really produced the wild pitch. The Crackers filled up those bases and it was the game's third Chattanooga pitcher who came through with the wild pitch.

I rather doubt that Clyde Milan made his statement. I have known Mr. Milan for some years and he is not a man who is prone to talking very foolishly, indeed after two defeats.

Still, my hearties, maybe they are right. Maybe they have seen through our noble nine and found it empty and wanting.

Maybe they have seen we haven't "such a good team."

But it was a team which took the Lookouts twice. And they're played but two games.

Old Man McGill will tell you what this Cracker ball club has got—it's got the old stuff to come from behind. And win. It finishes strong. And it is more likely to win in the ninth and then first.

It will out-game a lot of ball clubs which may be better—on paper.

COLLEGE BATTERSHEFTY. BERKELEY, Cal.—(AP)—College seems to be where the heavy hitting is. Charlie Hardt, of the California Bears, batted .444 and his teammate Sam Chapman .424, in the first few games.

Also, the star bowler of the Carolinas, Louise Alvis, of Greensboro, is entered and expects to bring a delegation of Tar Heel fans to Atlanta to cheer her to victory. The delegation will be headed by Charlie Carroll, operator of the Greensboro alley. Miss Alvis made a big hit with Atlanta bowlers in her recent victory in the Georgia open sweepstakes in which she emerged as the victor over a large field of entries.

In addition to the five out of town bowlers already entered there will be one Atlanta woman entered. The Atlanta bowler will be the winner of the 20-game individual contest that is being bowled in series of five games each.

AUBURN WINS. AUBURN, Ala., April 13.—(AP)—Auburn in only one of the six periods, the Alabama Poly poloists won their second intercollegiate game of the season here Monday, 12-6, over the University of Illinois. Against a team composed three-fourths of reserves, Illinois gained a 2-1 lead over Auburn in only the final chucker.

FISHING SEASON TO END TODAY

Attention has been called by Zack D. Cravey, Georgia's game and fish commissioner, to the closed fishing season on Georgia's warm-water streams and lakes which begins April 15. This law reads: "It shall be a misdemeanor for any person to fish in any of the fresh waters of this state by hook and line or by any other means from April 15 to June 1." Also, "It shall be a misdemeanor to sell or purchase fresh water fish during the spawning season of April 15 to June 1."

In a ruling issued by the attorney-general's office yesterday this season is defined as beginning at midnight Tuesday and ending midnight May 31.

This law does not apply to trout streams in north Georgia, which opened April 1 and will continue open until November 15.

Cravey requests the co-operation of sportsmen of the state in protecting the fish during the spawning season.

COMEBACK. INDIANAPOLIS, April 13.—(AP)—Kelly Pettito, smiling Italian-American from Huntington Park, Cal., winner of the national driving championship last year, has come out of retirement for the 500-mile automobile race to be run here May 30.

DAVIS-ROCHE STRUGGLE. Mat Feature Tonight

Karl Davis, one of the biggest and most turbulent of the heavyweight grapplers, will attempt to tear Doree Roche to pieces tonight in Promoter Henry Weber's main attraction at the Atlanta theater. Davis, a flagrant fouler, and a warrior whose every appearance means dynamite, looms as a real menace to the title ambitions of the fast-stepping, Scarsion coal miner, who last week reached his peak in upsetting Pete Sauer.

The headliner appears to have what a top attraction needs, pitting a giant killer against a giant, a game mat-man against a wild and exceedingly rough one. They rarely come any more vicious than Karl Davis.

Supporting matches make the card one of unusual appeal. Count Zarly-noff, who has been bowling 'em over here in recent weeks, draws a rugged opponent in Jack Morgan in the semi-final of Promoter Henry Weber's weekly offering.

The curtain raiser at 8:20 will pair off Cliff Olsen with Eddie Newman. Usual popular prices are in effect.

Close to 200,000 Fans Expected To See Majors Open Today

Great Pitchers in Duels Today

Mel Harder.

Schoolboy Rowe.

Dizzy Dean.

Lon Warneke.

Opening games in the major leagues today will see most of the great moundmen of the big show in action. Among the more promising mound battles are those which loom at Cleveland, where Schoolboy Rowe, Detroit ace, opposes Mel Harder, and at St. Louis, where Dizzy Dean clashes with Lon Warneke, of the Cubs. The Dean nomination is a last-minute surprise, Manager Frankie Frisch having previously announced Leroy Parmelee, in better condition, would get the call.

Governor Futrell Seeks To Better Opening Pitches

By Ernest B. Vaccaro.

MEMPHIS, Tenn., April 13.—(AP)—As matters now stand, a lot depends on how Governor Marion Futrell, of Arkansas, pitches the first ball at Little Rock tomorrow.

The first tosses of other notables at opening baseball games in the Southern association were distinctly disappointing, and the usual catty talk was going the rounds today.

That the officials "throw us curves the year around except at opening games," was the disturbing tenor of these remarks.

While it may be successfully contended that the officials did as well as the civic club leaders at Saturday's ceremonies, the fact remains that Governor Futrell must perform heroically if the faith of the people in their leaders is to be restored.

Governor Futrell apparently views the situation with his accustomed calm. There was nothing in the dispatches from Little Rock to indicate any intensive preparations on his part. He is to pitch to Mayor R. E. Overmire, of Little Rock, with Mayor U. E. Moore, of North Little Rock, at the bat, and County Judge R. A. Cook ready to serve as umpire.

L. S. U. Nine Wins From Auburn, 6-4

AUBURN, Ala., April 13.—Home-run hitting by Buddie Blair and Newt Humphrey enabled Louisiana State to defeat Alabama Poly, 6-4, Monday in the first of a two-game series at Auburn.

The second game of their conference series will start here Tuesday afternoon at 3:15, with Jesse Fatheree and Joe Bob Mitchell, two crack halfbacks, slated to oppose each other in the box.

GIANTS, DODGERS MAY DRAW 55,000 AT POLOGROUNDS

All Clubs Face Season With Most Drastic Shakeups Since War.

By Alan Gould.

NEW YORK, April 13.—(AP)—With a salute to the addicts of America's great national sport, 16 major league baseball clubs will put on a ceremonial view tomorrow the results of the most drastic player shakeup in the memory of the oldest bleacher inhabitant.

The changes will be put in their first test before close to 200,000 fans in eight cities. They forecast the bitterest sort of pennant scrambles.

The nation's No. 1 fan, President Roosevelt, will throw out the first ball at Washington, where the home-town Senators entertain the New York Yankees.

Weather forecasts indicated a silver lining to the clouds that have hung persistently over the spring training season. Fair weather was predicted for the entire major league program.

The opening guns of the championship campaign will boom loudest west of the Alleghenies, with the flag-winning Chicago Cubs invading the stronghold of their bitterest rivals in St. Louis, and the World Champion Detroit Tigers moving into the ballfield of the ambitious Cleveland Indians, but the crowds will be biggest at the other two National league openers.

DODGERS, GIANTS.

Brooklyn's entirely reconstructed team, flanked by loyal rooters from Flatbush, will move across the river to meet the New York Giants before a near-capacity crowd of 55,000 at the Polo Grounds.

Cincinnati expects a sellout attendance of 30,000 for the opener with the Pittsburgh Pirates.

All told, 115,000 fans are expected to witness the National league's introductory show, featuring a pitching duel at St. Louis between the great Dizzy Dean and Lonnie Warneke, No. 1 man of the Chicago sharpshooters staff.

The four American league openers, it is estimated, will draw more than 80,000, due mainly to the fact that the Tigers and Yankees are obliged by the schedule to open away from their home parks. A top crowd of 25,000 likely will see Lynnwood (Schoolboy) Rowe, youthful pitching giant of the Tigers, oppose Mel Harder, big chief of the Indians, while Wes Ferrell goes to the firm line for the elaborately built Boston Red Sox against the Philadelphia Athletics, survivors of baseball's biggest "sellout."

QUICKER CHANGE.

This year's campaign will offer the fans a quicker change to size up their favorites and determine whether the experts were justified in establishing the Detroit Tigers and the St. Louis Cardinals as pennant choices. The three-game series plan will operate for the first time. A fresh set of "openers" will be played April 17. Intersectional competition will get under way earlier than ever before, with east-west rivalry beginning April 28.

Both pennant races appear likely to be close. The fight for National league leadership hardly could be any hotter than the one last September when the Cubs came galloping from behind with a 21-game winning streak to overhaul the Giants and the Cardinals. All three teams, plus the improved Pittsburgh Pirates, figure to participate in this year's tussle. Betting men like the Cubs' chances to repeat, but baseball writers figure the Cardinals pitching staff, headed by J. Lee, joining the celebrated Dean brothers, as the most probable dominating factor in the campaign.

IMPORTANT CHANGES.

Every club has made important changes. The shifts range from the single change in the regular New York lineup, with Burgess Whitehead at second base, to the complete shakeup in Brooklyn's starting lineups.

The only Dodger holdover from the starting lineup of 1935 is Linus (Junior) Frey and he has been shifted from shortstop to second base in the combination that will fly the Flatbush colors tomorrow.

The Cardinals, aside from their pitching strength, are counting upon better results from the colorful Pepper Martin back in the outfield and Charley Gelbert, hero of one of the game's greatest comebacks, stationed at third.

DEPEND ON KLEIN.

The Cubs depend upon Chuck Klein's hitting comeback. Manager Charley Grimm will start the season at his old job, first base, but undoubtedly will promote to his sophomore understudy, Phil Cavaretta, before the halfway mark is reached. If the pitching staff, featuring Warneke, Lee, French and Root, remains steady under fire the champions will be hard to dethrone.

Pittsburgh, fortified by a fine backup in Al Ford and a comeback by Manager Pie Traynor at third base, needs more consistent pitching to be a real pennant factor but has a good chance of getting it. Brooklyn likely will get a strenuous battle from the Cincinnati Reds for fifth place. Philadelphia's pitching should stand off any challenge from the Boston Red Sox for seventh position.

Al Simmons' big bat is the main addition to the champion Tigers. With the club well fortified in every respect otherwise, it probably will be sufficient to offset challenges from the Red Sox or the Indians. Cleveland's fine-looking pitching staff may make the Tribe a more dangerous threat than Boston's well-advertised power. The Red Sox must lean heavily on the seasoned arms of Wes Ferrell and Lefty Grove but they are certain to be title factors for the first time since the war days.

All the second division outfits have made shifts since 1935. They will introduce two of the spring's recruit sensations, Tim Lincecum, Buddy Lewis, of Washington, and Centerfielder Mike Kreech, of Chicago. On their pitching, the White Sox look the best for fifth place, over the Browns and Senators. The Athletics are still in the league.

Burns and Stewart Lead Women's Play

Mrs. Jimmy Burns and Mrs. John Stewart took the lead Monday in a three-day medal tournament for members of the Atlanta Women's Golf Association on the Capital City course. Mrs. Burns had a gross 44-40-35.

Stirring Action as Petrels Beat Cincinnati

Andy Johnson, Petrel first baseman, didn't have a chance when he tried to score in the sixth inning of yesterday's game between Oglethorpe and Cincinnati University. Davis, Cincy catcher, has Johnson who is in the air, completely blocked.

PURPLE NETMEN, TRACKMEN WIN

Boys' High's track team defeated Lanier High, of Macon, 62 to 60, Monday afternoon at Grant field.

Small was high-point scorer for the Purples. He won the half and mile runs.

Malone led the way for the Poets in winning the 220 and 440-yard dashes, in addition to running in the relay race, which Lanier won.

Boys' High placed well for the Purples in the track events and won the shot put and the discus events.

Boys' High will go to Athens Thursday for a final meet with the Georgia freshmen.

NEW YORK, April 13.—(P)—The principal support in today's stock market was provided by a few of the rails, While buyers, on the average, had a little the best of the argument at the finish, trends were still sufficiently irregular to confuse most of the analysts.

Heavy industry improvement was reflected in the estimate of the American Iron & Steel Institute that current steel mill operations were at 67.9 per cent of capacity, up 5.3 per cent from the previous week at the top level since mid-1930.

Seevral mining issues responded to the uniform establishment of copper on a 9 1-2-cent-a-pound basis, which was in line with forecasts received by the financial district late last week. There were outstanding share gainers as well as losers here and there.

TARZAN AND THE LEOPARD MEN No. 92.

While Bobolo awaited a chance to kidnap Kali Bwana, the Leopard Men quaffed their beer in great gulps. Soon they began to dance to the rhythm of a slow chant, rising in volume and increasing in tempo until the temple floor was a mass of howling, leaping savages.

The Leopard God, excited by the din and movement, strained at his chain, snarling fiercely. And now Lulini, who had imbibed as freely as the rest, danced before the frenzied carnivore, leaping almost within reach, then springing back as the beast struck out.

Bobolo knew he could count on Old Timer's aid to kidnap the girl if he pretended that he was trying to save them both. He approached the white men's guards. "Go and join the others," he ordered. "I'll watch the prisoner." The guards were happy enough to comply.

"You see, I am keeping my promise," Bobolo whispered to the prisoner. "I'll help you escape. Follow me!" Old Timer balked. "Not without the girl," he insisted. "She, too," Bobolo agreed. Old Timer smiled, unaware of the shadow of treachery which hung over him.

LEASE ON WHITE PARK OPPOSED BY OFFICIALS

City Leaders Frown on Expenditure Without Hope of Buying Tract.

Any move to revive city acquisition of the John A. White park which does not contemplate outright purchase will get a cold reception from city officials, it was indicated yesterday immediately following announcement that a new lease proposal expiring at the end of the year will be submitted to the finance committee this afternoon.

Although municipal officials declined to comment publicly on the proposed new lease measure, which Councilman J. Allen Couch, fifth ward, will offer at the finance committee meeting this afternoon, their private opinion seemed to be that the city should buy the tract at a reasonable figure or it should cease any effort to give the city temporary custody of the tract.

The Couch measure contemplates that the municipality will pay $1,600 for the lease of that portion owned by Dr. O. E. Collum for the remainder of the year. Those opposing the move said when the end of the year arrives, the city will be in the same position it now finds itself, except it will have expended another $1,600.

"I have talked to Dr. Collum, and find that the figure ($1,600) is satisfactory to him," Couch said, yesterday.

"Hundreds of people are entitled to the recreational facilities of the White park, and I am going to do everything in my power to see they get it."

the finance committee declines to recommend the lease, I shall carry the fight to the floor of city council Monday."

Dr. Collum and city authorities have been unable to agree on a purchase price and the municipality relinquished its lease on the tract last December 31. Since that time, the nine-hole golf course has not been operated.

FURTHER JURY TANGLE DELAWS FLOGGING CASE

BARTOW, Fla., April 13.—(AP)—Selection of a jury from rural Polk county to try seven former Tampa policemen for flogging three labor organizers there last November, one of whom died, ran into difficulties at the outset of the trial here today.

A special venire of 90 was called to augment the regular panel of 18, but Judge Robert T. Dewell excused about half of them, and there were 70 challenges which the defense and prosecution attorneys had the privilege of exercising.

Indication that the labor affiliations of the three victims will play a part in the trial came early in the questioning of the veniremen.

The judge estimated it might take two or three days to select the six men who will form the jury. He presided when an unsuccessful effort was made recently to obtain a jury in adjoining Hillsborough county.

PASSES TO GAINESVILLE NO LONGER NECESSARY

Military passes to visit storm-torn Gainesville are no longer necessary, Adjutant General Lindley Camp announced yesterday.

Until yesterday such passes had been required, but the necessity for procuring them was believed to have passed, and General Camp said any persons wishing to visit the city could pass military lines without them in the future.

Colonel T. L. Alexander, commanding the 122d Infantry, Georgia National Guard, was still on duty yesterday with 75 men. He discharged 125 Sunday night and they returned to Atlanta.

STORM RELIEF TOTAL NEARS $300,000 MARK

Sums From Church Collections and Theater Benefits To Swell Gifts.

That Georgia's contribution to the disaster relief fund will total $300,000 shortly was predicted last night by Red Cross officials as they prepared to receive sums from the 42 Lucas & Jenkins theaters this morning and to check over additional Easter offerings from churches throughout the state.

The state contribution increased by $12,000 yesterday, bringing the total fund to approximately $275,000.

Atlanta's donation rose to about $125,000 as $6,000 poured into the relief coffers. Moreton Rolleston, Atlanta relief fund chairman, stated that there is about $150,000 in the Atlanta relief center, $25,000 of which has been given by other cities.

A splendid response throughout the state was reported from the benefit shows sponsored by the Lucas & Jenkins theaters. Willis J. Milner Jr., state relief fund chairman, said last night, "We expect to get the receipts this morning. In addition to giving their services for the performance, many employees of Lucas & Jenkins will send in personal contributions, it was reported last night."

Many to Give Tomorrow.

Another optimistic note was sounded by Rolleston who said he had been advised by many industries that their employees would make additional contributions when they received their semi-monthly pay checks tomorrow.

"Many employees are to make donations as soon as they get their April 15 checks," he said. "We estimate that more than $5,000 will come in from that source."

A series of radio talks in behalf of the campaign is to be made over Station WSB today. Colonel J. H. Paschall, of Calhoun, is to speak at 2:15 o'clock; Charles D. McKinney, of Decatur, is to talk at 4:30 o'clock, and J. W. Carmichael, of Marietta, at 10:45 o'clock. A program will also be given at 9:05 o'clock this morning.

The appeal was drafted by Dr. Newton, Dr. Ellis Fuller, Dr. W. H. Major and Dr. Ryland Knight.

of Gordon Brooks, state radio program chairman.

Contributions may be made at the Red Cross headquarters in the Volunteer State Life building; at either one of the three Atlanta newspapers, or at other centers established throughout the city.

Augustus thus far has raised $11,000, it was reported last night. More than 3,000 citizens have taken part in the drive for funds at Griffin, where $4,500 had been raised last night. Countless small communities have been raising funds ranging from a few dollars to many thousands.

Blind youths at the Atlanta Community Shop contributed $12.25 yesterday. Tri-State Culvert and Pipe Company joined the 100 per cent family group. Employees of Zakas Bakery contributed $63.75 and Westinghouse Electric employees gave $142.50.

Other contributors yesterday included the Lunsford Wilson Company, Jerome & Cowan, Claude S. Bennett and Butler Brothers.

Decatur Doubles Quota.

Decatur was reported to have doubled its $2,500 quota. Though assessed $100 each, the Washington and Habersham county Red Cross chapters gave $1,500 and $2,360, respectively. Meansville sent in $51.50; Moultrie, $2,100, and Americus, $713.62.

Other contributors were: Rabun Gap-Nacoochee school, $48; O. S. Cook, $1; Oscar Riddle, $1; Mrs. Theo. Orwell, $5; C. A. Beckman, $1; Emerson Casen, $1; Mrs. R. S. Thaxton, $2; Margaret S. Patterson, $5; Mr. and Mrs. B. W. Smith, $5; George F. Zealy, $5; W. J. Bailey, $2.

Church Rebuilding Fund.

Twenty-one Baptist churches of the state and an anonymous contributor had responded last night to an appeal issued by leading Atlanta Baptist pastors for funds with which to assist the restoration of the damaged Baptist church in Gainesville. It was announced by Dr. Louis D. Newton, a member of the committee making the appeal.

To date, $2,112.07 has been subscribed to the fund, Dr. Newton said. A United States government engineer, sent to the storm area, estimated that $90,000 would be required to replace the damaged church in its former condition.

Additional subscriptions which various churches have signified their intention of sending within the next few days are expected to swell the fund considerably, Dr. Newton said.

The appeal was drafted by Dr. Newton, Dr. Ellis Fuller, Dr. W. H. Major and Dr. Ryland Knight.

JOHN F. MIMS PASSES; WAS ATLANTA PIONEER

Son of Noted Early Mayor of City Was Born Here 80 Years Ago.

John F. Mims, a member of one of Atlanta's oldest and most prominent families and the son of the late General John F. Mims, third mayor of the city, died yesterday at the residence of a niece, Mrs. J. M. Moore, 785 Angier Springs road, at the age of 80.

A native of the city, he was born here in 1856 and resided here as a child through the strife of the War Between the States. He was here when the city was burned and assisted his family in contributing much to the rebuilding of the city into its present status as the metropolis of the south.

He was associated for many years with the Atlanta & West Point railroad, of which his father, General Mims, was the president. Mayor Mims was noted for his great service to the city during his tenure of office in 1883 and it was under his leadership that the first steps were taken toward building a city hall. Historians recorded that greater progress was made during the administration of Mayor Mims than under any previous regime.

The younger Mr. Mims was one of the founders of the old Couch Manufacturing Company, of East Point, and for many years was a leading figure in the business affairs of the city. In later years he had withdrawn from many of his associations.

He is survived by four other nieces, Misses Hattie Mims, Mrs. Henry Anderson, of Louisville, Ky.; Mrs. H. G. Bruce, of Savannah, and Mrs. Floyd Butler, of Atlanta, and three nephews, Warren Shallercross, Louisville, and Howard and William Mims, of Atlanta.

Funeral services will be held at 3 o'clock tomorrow afternoon at the chapel of Awtry & Lowndes with the Rev. John E. Cobb officiating. Burial will be in Oakland cemetery.

NEGRO IS TREATED FOR PISTOL WOUNDS

Alleged Attacker Transferred to Hospital From Fulton Tower.

By the Associated Press.

Saved from a sullen mob at Danielsville by an aged judge and the national guard after he had been accused of attempting to attack a farm girl, Lint Shaw, 45-year-old negro, received treatment for serious pistol wounds yesterday.

The burly negro was transferred to Grady hospital from Fulton tower, where he was held for safe keeping. He was brought here late Saturday after being threatened by a mob for five hours.

Judge B. T. Mosley, white-haired veteran of the northern superior court district, left a sick bed to make a dramatic appeal to the mob to "stop violating the law by breaking into the jail."

He authorized Sheriff T. L. Henley to deputize 100 citizens to preserve order and then called for the national guard, which hastened to the scene from storm-stricken Gainesville.

The negro, who was shot after he stabbed two officers who were taking him to jail in Danielsville, was described by physicians as in a weakened condition because of loss of blood. The bullets did not strike vital organs.

VICTIM OF TORNADO PASSES AT HOSPITAL

Flora Bradley, Gainesville negro, died yesterday at Grady hospital of injuries suffered in the tornado which swept that city.

Sixteen other negro victims of the storm were brought to Atlanta hospitals Sunday. Twelve were admitted to Grady hospital and the others were taken to W. A. Harris Memorial hospital.

HULL ASKS FOR UNITY IN WAR ON NARCOTICS

Nations Acting Alone Can't Protect Selves Against Traffic, He Declares.

WASHINGTON, April 13.—(AP)—A plea for co-operation among governments as well as individuals in combating the traffic in narcotic drugs was made today by Secretary Hull in a message to the World Narcotic Defense Association in session here.

"Time and experience have proved," he said, "that nations acting alone are unable adequately to protect themselves against the illicit traffic in narcotic drugs or even to control the legitimate traffic therein."

"Isolated action by one country can have no permanent or effective result while other countries allow free manufacture, free import and free export of the drugs."

Recalling that "practically all" of the governments of the world have combined to combat the menace of drug addiction, the secretary of state added, however:

"All of these government measures, necessary as they are, will be in vain without the interest, the understanding and the support of the public, support that is essential not in one nation alone, not in a few nations, but in all nations."

"Devoting itself solely to the work of enlisting the support of public opinion throughout the world in the effort to warn human against this scourge, to arouse public sentiment against those who seek to poison their fellow men for sordid gain and to encourage the public to support the enforcement of laws designed to prevent the abuse of narcotic drugs, your association seems to me thus to present a program deserving of the highest praise."
